SCRIBING ALL SYMPTOMS.

SYMPTOMS:
The symptoms of Ostarrie, as they generally appear, are at first very slight. Persons find they have a cold, that they have frequent attacks, and are more securitive to the changes of temperature. In this condition, the nose may be dry, or slight discharge, thin and acrid, alterwards becoming thick and selbusine, as the discase becomes chronic the discharges are increased in quantity and changed in quality; they are now thick and heavy and are hawhed or coupled off. The secretions are offended, causing a had breath; the voice is thick and masal; the eyes are weak; the sense of the small is lessened or destroyed; desfines frequently takes place. Another common and important symptom of Ostarrie, is, that the person is obliged to clear his throat in the morning of a thick or slimsy mocca, which has fallen down from the based during the night. When this takes place the jerton may be sure that his disease is on lis way to the image, and slichtly less no time in arresting it. The noce are less fear of the many Chairrie apagicans.
